It Was Always Doing That

You thought something had changed.

But it wasn’t new. You were just seeing differently.

The movement, the shifts, the forming and reforming—

They had always been there.

It was always doing that.